book that I can't let down. And the vampire theme, you kind of think that there is nothing that you haven't already heard, seen or read but "The Making of a Queen" it's something else! The story captives you from the first page, and by the end, you just can't wait to see what happens next! I gladly, with all the confidence recommend this book!!!

ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende My name is Mary Moriarty, author of The Kings of Angkor: Army of a Thousand Elephants and One Thousand Years to Forever: the Making of a Queen. TKOA is labeled Historical Fiction but it really crosses a couple genres . It starts present day, goes back in time to the time of Suryavaman II and ends... Well I can't tell you that, you will just have to read the book . How does a woman who grew up in NH, spent her summers in Camden Maine where I now live , write or know anything about Cambodia? I lived there for 11 or so years. When I went there in the first week in February of 1996 it was not the most settled country. I was fortunate enough to live down on the coast in Kampot Town of Kampot Province. In between Kampot and Phnom Penh was four hours of basic 'no mans land' that had to be traveled to reach the capital. If you wanted to go to Phnom Penh you left with a convoy and came back the same way. Living in Cambodia gave me a greater, deeper appreciation for my own country. I have been writing all my life, well ever since going to school. It runs in my mother's family. Louisa May Alcott who's grandmother from her father's side was a Bronson (My Mother's Family). Louisa's father was my great, great grandfather's 2nd cousin. My grandmother (mother's mother) family was Oldenburg . That's where I got the name for Anna. Anna's Uncle was my own great uncle , George Reisner. If you don' t know what I am talking about get a copy of my book and read . What am I working on right now? Two projects with a third on the back burner. One of those projects is the second in the series of The Kings of Angkor. I loved writing Anna (Indradevi's) story along with (Jayavarman's.) Their's was a love story that was known at one time in Cambodia and I want to bring it to all of you. What do I do when I am not writing. I am a mother of 7, with four sons still at home. I write in the early morning hours, run/power walk or row after and read at night. A lot of times I am researching when I am writing and sometimes it's way too much fun so I have to stop and get back to writing. So take time to look over my blogs, drop me a line and please purchase my books. I think you will enjoy Anna's/ Indradevi's story as much as I did writing it. Also with the new book One Thousand Years to Forever, you will meet Colum and Katherine. Their story is also a timeless story of love and will continue into books 2 and 3 and maybe even 4.
