

(Read and download) The Lost Garden (Tales from Goswell)

The Lost Garden (Tales from Goswell)

Von Katherine Swartz

*DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub

Download

Read Online

Produktinformation -Verkaufsrank: #760663 in eBooksVerffentlicht am: 2015-05-12Erscheinungsdatum: 2015-05-12File Name: B00XJKPOO | File size: 64.Mb

Von Katherine Swartz : The Lost Garden (Tales from Goswell) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Lost Garden (Tales from Goswell):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. A lovely storyVon jeanne adamekThis novel was very good. I love duel time line stories especially when history mixes in at least one of the time lines. The author did this extremely well giving me a novel that I felt portrayed grief, understanding and forgiveness with just the right touch.I loved the characterization of a number of Katherine Swartz's characters (Marin, Katherine and Jack) and especially how she surprising led these characters away from their own comfort zone making them exceedingly human and more likeable. Recommended 4.5 stars

Kurzbeschreibung Lonely and stagnating in a soulless job, thirty-seven-year-old Marin Ellis is in need of a new start but she is not prepared for the one she is given, when, after her estranged father and his second wife die in a car accident, she is made guardian of her fifteen-year-old half-sister Rebecca. The half-sisters are practically strangers, and their life in Hampshire is stilted and strange. At Rebeccas pleading they move to the picturesque village of Goswell on the Cumbrian coast, settling into the charming Bower House on the edge of church property. When a door to a walled garden captures Rebeccas interest, Marin becomes determined to open it and discover what is hidden beneath the brambles. She enlists the help of local gardener Joss Fowler, and together they begin to uncover the gardens surprising secrets. In 1919, nineteen-year-old Eleanor Sanderson, daughter of Goswells vicar, is grieving the loss of her beloved brother Walter, killed just days before the Armistice was signed. As winter passes into spring, her mood remains bleak despite her attempts to alleviate the emptiness she feels. When her father decides to hire someone to help Eleanor restore the once beloved, but now neglected, vicarage gardens, she is enchanted by the possibility of a new garden and the gardener her father hires, Yorkshireman Jack Taylor. Jack understands the nature of Eleanors grief more than anyone else seems to, and as they spend time together, a surprising and unsuitable friendship unfolds...

Pressestimmen "Katharine Swartz can do no wrong. The Lost Garden navigates loss and hope with Swartz's deft hand and unflinching ability to tell a quiet story so well it resonates in the heart for a long, long while after the final page."--Megan Crane, USA Today Bestselling author of Once More With Feeling (03/25/2015) "Katharine Swartz always delivers a beautifully written, deeply emotional read. The Lost Garden is a touching and tragic novel, and yet ultimately it is a story of both hope and redemption."--Maisey Yates, USA Today Bestselling author of Part Time Cowboy (03/25/2015) "Katharine Swartz can do no wrong. The Lost Garden navigates loss and hope with Swartz's deft hand and unflinching ability to tell a quiet story so well it resonates in the heart for a long, long while after the final page."--Megan Crane, USA Today Bestselling author of Once More With Feeling (03/25/2015) "Katharine Swartz always delivers a beautifully written, deeply emotional read. The Lost Garden is a touching and tragic novel, and yet ultimately it is a story of both hope and redemption."--Maisey Yates, USA Today Bestselling author of Part Time Cowboy (03/25/2015)

Kurzbeschreibung Lonely and stagnating in a soulless job, thirty-seven-year-old Marin Ellis is in need of a new start but she is not prepared for the one she is given, when, after her estranged father and his second wife die in a car accident, she is made guardian of her fifteen-year-old half-sister Rebecca. The half-sisters are practically strangers, and their life in Hampshire is stilted and strange. At Rebeccas pleading they move to the picturesque village of Goswell on the Cumbrian coast, settling into the charming Bower House on the edge of church property. When a door to a walled garden captures Rebeccas interest, Marin becomes determined to open it and discover what is hidden beneath the brambles. She enlists the help of local gardener Joss Fowler, and together they begin to uncover the gardens surprising secrets. In 1919, nineteen-year-old Eleanor Sanderson, daughter of Goswells vicar, is grieving the loss of her beloved brother Walter, killed just days before the Armistice was signed. As winter passes into spring, her mood remains bleak despite her attempts to alleviate the emptiness she feels. When her father decides to hire someone to help Eleanor restore the once beloved, but now neglected, vicarage gardens, she is enchanted by the possibility of a new garden and the gardener her father hires, Yorkshireman Jack Taylor. Jack understands the nature of Eleanors grief more than anyone else seems to, and as they spend time together, a surprising and unsuitable friendship unfolds...