Israel's Faulkner in a tour de forceVon aem0608@is2.nyu.eduIn a most unusual storyline, a man searches for his wife's lover in the aftermath of the 1973 Yom Kippur War. In the meantime, early tension of the Jewish state is plumbed: Ashkenazi vs. Sephardi, man vs. woman, Arab vs. Jew. Told from constantly oscillating viewpoints in the spirit of Faulkner's As I Lay Dying, Yehoshua presents a hyperrealistic portrait of modern-day Israel. 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Intelligent and original Von Ein Kunde A well done "fresco" of contradictions in the Israeli society. Each protagonist is part of the Israel complexity. A simple and a little surreal story in a difficult history. Great book. 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Alles schnell und gut Von Kunde Alles war schnell gekommen und das buch war neu und unbeschdigt angekommen. Dies war gar nicht teuer. Ich werde noch bcher kaufen.

Kurzbeschreibung A man searches for his wifes lover during the Yom Kippur War, in a novel by the award-winning author hailed as the Israeli Faulkner (The New York Times). In Haifa, at the dawn of Israels 1973 war, the lives of a middle-class garage owner named Adam, and his schoolteacher wife, Asya, have come undone in ways for which they are totally unprepared. Adam has just found out from his distraught wife that she has been having affair and has fallen in love with the enigmatic Gabriel Arditi. But Asyas hysteria isnt rooted in her admission of infidelity but rather her discovery that Gabriel has disappeared. Has he gone to war? Has he been killed? Or has he left Asya for another? Finding him has become Asyas obsession, and its about to become her husbands, too. Set against the backdrop of a turbulent moment in history and featuring a myriad of characterseach with his or her own versions of events The Lover is a witty, suspenseful, audacious novel that lays bare the deep-rooted tensions within families, between generations, and between Jews and Arabs, offering a profound study of personal and political trauma (Daily Telegraph), from a recipient of honors including the National Jewish Book Award, the Man Booker International Prize, and the Los Angeles Times Book Prize.
